A MANUAL OF SINGING, for the use of Choir-trainers and Schoolmasters, by RICHARD MANN, Inspector of Choirs in the Archdeaconry of Salop, &c.

PREFACE.

The following work is intended principally for the use of Schoolmasters and Choir-trainers, especially amateurs.

It has been the object of the Author to introduce only so much theory as is absolutely necessary, with as few technical terms as possible, and this simply in elucidation of a series of progressive exercises.

Directions for the use of the Choir-trainer have been inserted, in the hope that they will make up, in some degree, for any want of experience on his part.

By using numbers to represent the notes of the scale, the Author believes he obtains all the advantages to be derived both from the old system of solmisation (that of always calling the key-note Do), and the more modern and more popular French system (that of calling a particular sound Do.*

He is convinced that by the following plan an untrained choir or school may be taught to read simple music at sight in a comparatively short time, and with far less trouble than is taken in teaching it by ear.

Most of the exercises have been written for this work: those by Dr. Nares and S. Webbe (the celebrated glee writer) have been long out of print; the Author feels it a great privilege to be able to re-introduce them to public notice. In conclusion, he has to thank the Rev. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Bart., the Rev. John Hampton, Messrs. John Stainer (Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford), B. Blyth, F. Helmore, and W. A. Barrett (of Magdalen College, Oxford), for their advice and assistance, and to acknowledge the kindness of the late Mr. John Wass in allowing him to take exercises from his valuable book on Singing.

Stroud, August, 1865.

* If the Choir-trainer wishes to teach on the former system (the Tonic Sol-fa), he can do so simply by substituting Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Si, for, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7; and C, D, E, F, G, A, B, for Do, Re, Mi, &c.
